

English

As readers, we are focusing on a range of reading comprehension skills, using Secrets of a Sun King as our focus.

As writers, we are promoting the delights of ancient Egypt. While travellers might want to visit perfect pyramids, the vast Valley of the Kings and the seemingly never-ending Nile, we're attempting to sell the idea that by visiting Egypt, you can return home with fewer family members than you arrived with.

Computing

This term we have focused on design systems, how data is transferred and the online sharing of information.

PSHE

Term 1 focuses on 'Being in my world'. We have explored the year ahead, what it means to be a citizen of England, the responsibilities we have to ourselves and others, and understanding how the choices we make impact the rewards and consequences we experience. We have also been practising mindfulness of a Friday afternoon – learning to focus on the here and now.

The world around us Priory Class Curriculum Map Term 1, 2021-2022

History

As historians, we have been using our class text to understand more about ancient Egyptian practices. Through the book, we are beginning to understand the fact that history is a matter of opinion, and that Emma Carroll holds a very strong opinion as to the integrity of Howard Carter, the archaeologist who discovered Howard Carter's tomb in 1922.

Maths

Place value has dominated our practice over the past term. We have focused on numbers up to 10 million, explored rounding, practised multiplying and dividing by powers of 10, recognising the value of numbers up to 3 decimal places (with slices of bread being the most utilised resource in the classroom). The subsequent focus was on negative numbers and reading Roman Numerals as years. Making connections across maths creates stronger mathematicians, so we've linked our work to measurement, geometry and statistics.

Art and Design

As artists, we have focused on sketching our observations of Egyptian artefacts to develop our mastery of the technique.

Geography

Across the year, we focus on locational geography, with specific reference to Egypt over this term.

PE

As athletes, we are focusing on tag rugby. This involves:

- * developing our catching skills
- * practising our throwing
- * working as part of a team
